

Eighty years ago, during the second world war the USA dropped the first atomic bomb, called Little Boy, to explode in a theatre of war on the Japanese city Hiroshima. Some days later they dropped a second atomic bomb, called Fat Boy on Nagasaki. This forced the Japanese to accept the unconditional surrender peace terms of the USA and the war ended as a result, without any soldiers of the USA invading the soil of Japan.

Two thousand and twenty-five years ago a Little Boy was born in a stable in Bethlehem. Magi from the East and shepherds from the hills of Judea paid homage to him while he was laying wrapped in cloths inside a manger there in that stable where he was born. The Little Boy grew up in Nazareth in Galilee but never became a Fat Boy because his parents were not rich. His father was a carpenter. Eventually he became a Big Boy and decided to leave his family carpentry business to become a rabbi. Unfortunately, during this time, he morphed into a Naughty Boy. Because of this the leaders of his nation decided that he had to be crucified alive until death. They brought him in front of the heathen governor in charge of the land. When the governor realised that the only crime the Naughty Boy was accused of was blasphemy, namely that he admitted to the leaders of his nation that he was the Messiah and the Son of God, the governor could not find him guilty of a crime worth capital punishment. He had him flogged however to please the leaders and their many followers. When they however started to intimidate him, he gave in to their demands and delivered the Naughty Boy over to be crucified. However, before he did so he told the leaders and their followers that brought the Naughty Boy before him: "I am innocent of this man's blood," while symbolically washing his hands in front of them. Then all his accusers, the people of the nation of the Naughty Boy answered, "His blood be on us and our children!" Forty years or one generation passed after this incident. MENE MENE TEKEL TEKEL.

MENE, God numbered the days of this nation living in their land and brought it to an end, the nation responsible for the death of his Son, the supposedly Naughty Boy.

TEKEL, This nation was weighed in the balances and found wanting.

Then next soldiers of the army of which the heathen governor was a citizen, destroyed the city of this nation responsible for the crucifixion of the supposedly Naughty Boy, as well as its walls and its temple. They killed many people of this nation during this battle; others they abducted into slavery and others were banned from living in this country even though they had been living there for many generations. This was the start of the great dispersion of this nation all over the world where they suffered much persecution. They were often expelled from one place where they had settled and then had to move to another country for their own safety. The father of this nation warned them repeatedly during his lifetime before they moved into their land that God would bless and protect them if they were obedient but would scatter them abroad if they disobeyed him. God however promised that he would not destroy them as a nation but would protect them and even return them to their homeland.

This is the reason for the persecution of this great nation founded and named by God since this event. If you differ then proof me wrong. For more clarity on this topic read the essay under the first page JEWISH by pressing the button named JAHWE.
