

Evolution or Devolution? Atheism or Delusion?

1 Corinthians 1 ²⁷But God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; ²⁸God chose what is low and despised in the world, even things that are not, to bring to nothing things that are,

Genesis 2 ⁴These are the GENERATIONS of the heavens and the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens.

Matthew 22 ³⁷And he (Jesus) said to him, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. ³⁸This is the great and first commandment

The Delusional Mr Richard Dawkins is so fixated with the Delusional Mr Charles Darwin's 160 year old Hypothetical Theory of Evolution that he decided to drive his thinking in reverse so that he can keep his eyes firmly on Mr Darwin back in the 17th century. In order to see where he is driving his thinking he does not even look in the rear view mirror, because he is driving on a straight wide road. He knows if he lines up the past road straight in front of him he will keep on driving straight on the same road and that is why he is not even looking in the rear view mirror of his car of thinking. If he would just spend a moment of his time and take his eyes of Mr Darwin, who died centuries ago, to give his irrationally conservative mind a chance to look in the rear view mirror of his car of thinking, he would notice he is on his way to drive his life over a gigantic cliff and straight into Hell where he will end up in the fire of God's presence and anger with nothing to offer the Almighty Creator of heaven and earth but his denial of God's existence. Mr Dawkins clearly has no respect either for God or his revealed way of life in the Bible. He is not just a big proponent for the Theory of Evolution, but is also the worlds primary evangelist for Atheism. This is evident from his well known bestseller the God Delusion as well as some of his other books. One day he will figure out his conclusions in these books are nothing but delusional trash. For his sake I hope this happens before he dies. God does not care about the Geneva Convention. God has to be feared by humanity and no one that makes a mockery of him or his existence should think he will get away with it. The bible warns the enemies of God with these words: "It's a terrible thing to fall in the hands of the living God." (Hebrews 10:31) Mr Dawkins and his followers are enemies of God and they will pay a heavy price for their bad choice unless they repent and ask God's forgiveness.

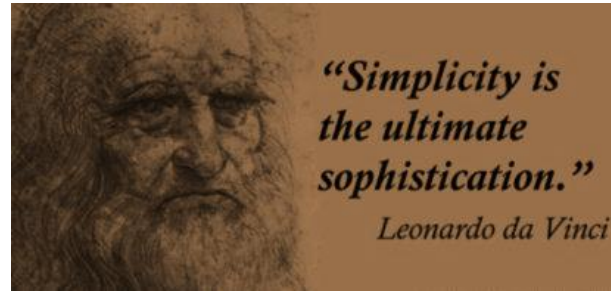

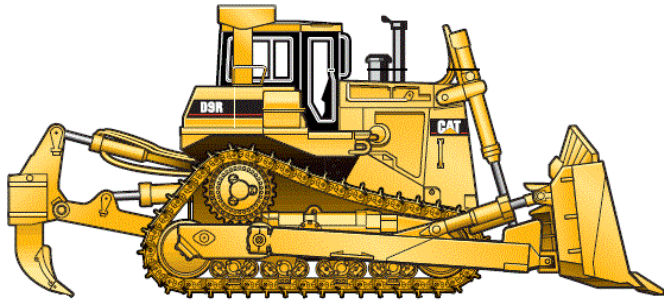

Matthew 6 ²² "The eye (mind) is the lamp (guide to wisdom, insight and understanding of reality) of the body (life). So, if your eye (mind) is healthy (righteous), your whole body (life) will be full of light (wisdom, understanding and truth), ²³ but if your eye (mind) is bad (evil or unrighteous), your whole body (life) will be full of darkness (foolishness). If then the light (wisdom, understanding and truth) in you (your life) is darkness (foolishness), how great is the darkness (foolishness)!

Job 28 ¹² "But where shall wisdom be found? And where is the place of understanding? ¹³ Man does not know its worth, and it is not found in the land of the living. ²³ "God understands the way to it, and he knows its place. ²⁴ For he looks to the ends of the earth and sees everything under the heavens. ²⁸ And he said to man, 'Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom, and to turn away from evil is understanding.' "

Proverbs 9 ¹⁰ The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is insight.

Evolution or Devolution? Atheism or Delusion? Is Nobody or Somebody behind species?

According to the Bible the reason why Mr Richard Dawkins is such a delusional fool is because he thinks nothing of God and his heart is evil. He does not love God. He even abhors the very idea of God. Evolution and the bases for Mr Richard Dawkins delusional believe system, started with the observations at the Galapagos Islands of the cabin boy of the Beagle sailboat and his great hero, Mr Charles Darwin. Mr Darwin was a brilliant observer but a terrible private investigator. His problem was that he did not consider ALL the facts. He only looked at the fingerprints and DNA (physical evidence) at the crime scene. He did not properly consider the alibi or motif (practicality) of his suspect, namely Nobody. The main problem with the Theory of Evolution as to answering how life was formed is that it gives a good explanation to SOME of the evidence, like the fossil record as can be seen in the development of Homo on the first page, but it does not explain ALL the evidence. Only an explanation that answers ALL the questions about the formation of life is the right explanation. That's how you find Somebody guilty. He must be guilty considering all the evidence. I am sure if Sherlock Holmes or Tinton were in the shoes of Mr Charles Darwin when he visited the Galapagos Islands, they would not have come up with the Theory of Evolution. Evolution is nothing but a half-baked hypothesis by wishful thinking atheists that does not consider the possibility of a God that has revealed himself in scripture as the creator of heaven and earth! Because they don't consider God's written revelation as truthful their eyes are blinded to the amazing revelation of himself in his book of nature even though they study it so intently.

The findings of All-round Private Investigator through observation of the obvious.

Consider the following experiment. You take a male and female puppy of 25 different dog breeds and lock them up in a big sport stadium for hundred years. They are allowed to get to know each other and mix freely. Every day somebody gives them enough food and water. After a while they start breeding. You allow all new born puppies to join the population in the stadium and you burry the dogs that die. Any animal breeder or casual observer will tell you these dogs will all interbreed with each other and after one hundred years you will have just one uniform mongrel or composite breed in the stadium. If you cannot separate related animals of the same species (like dog breeds) through fences like dog breeders or farmers do with livestock, you cannot form a new breed of dog, not even speaking of a new specie like a CAT. In nature there are no fences, neither on land, or the sea or the air. It is therefore practically impossible for so many new species to have formed through breeding as nature has very little divisions or fences to help an outlier form a new breed or even more impossible a new specie. The genes of an outlier will simply melt away into the existing population as he or she is one amongst thousands upon thousands of his kind. Chances are good an outlier might even be caught by predators as he is standing out from the rest. The genes in an animal species is like rivers. It does not divide to form new species. They rather come together to lay down an unchangeable genetic pool. It's called line breeding. You keep breeding the same breed of animals their trademarks get set. Take for instance the Dingo of Australia. It has been there for thousands of years. Australia is a huge land mass with no borders. The Dingo is a homogeneous dog and it has stayed like that for the entire time it has been there. There are no Doberman, Delmation or German Shephard like Dingoes. No different Dingo breeds have formed for thousands of years yet Mr Darwin and Mr Dawkins wants one to believe that in millions of years' time a  will emerge from the Dingo. The reason why no Dingo breeds can form is because there are no fences, just like everywhere else on earth. If it's impractical for new Dingo breeds to form in Australia then to think a  will emerge at any time in the future is simply delusional wishful thinking. In fact other existing foreign dog breeds are able to still breed with the Dingo forming a feral Dingo. This also proofs that even though a specific group of a species gets isolated for thousands of years from its fellow species members in other places it will interbreed again to resort back to a common gene just like rivers that come together and won't splinter off. Species do not evolve into different species like Mr Darwin and Mr Dawkins alleges, just the opposite is true, they devolve to a common form. If different species did not form through natural processes and Nobody is not responsible for the formation of different species then through simple deduction the truth is staring the Atheist right in the eye. Somebody is responsible for the creation of different species through a supernatural process over a long period of time. Atheist Evolutionists like calling him the God of the Gaps. If you are not smart and clever enough to explain something naturally then you conveniently use the God of the Gaps to explain it, they say to people of faith in God. But unfortunately being witty with words does not make you right concerning this matter. If you look at something that happened a long time ago you must be able to pack the complete puzzle to understand how it happened. The only gap I see is the delusional gap between the ears of Mr Dawkins and his kind that are influencing millions of people to forsake God. He is nothing but a spokesman for the arch deceiver of humanity - Satan himself. Take for instance the more than 12 000 plant species on Madagascar with more than 10 000 unique to the island. How did all that different plant species branch off from a common species if there are no borders to prevent the newly formed genus from interbreeding with the old. The same holds true for the Fynbos of the Cape. There are also more than a 100 species of chameleon in Madagascar while there is only a 150 species in the world. The same principle applies as for the Dingo of Australia. It's impossible for so many Chameleon species to form, that do not interbreed, on one Island through natural processes, because there are no borders to prevent a newly formed genus from interbreeding with the old. If these different chameleon species could not form through natural processes at the hands of Nobody over time then it comes naturally that they could only have been form supernaturally by Somebody. Lake Malawi has more than a 1000 species of fish. How could so many fish species possible branch of from each other through natural processes if its one uniformbody of water with no borders. Even if a part of the lake got isolated for a time for thousands of years the fish of the same species will simply interbreed again just like the Dingo breeds with foreign dogs. If its impossible to explain this through natural processes then it leaves only the supernatural. There are more than 20 000 fish species in the ocean. Its just not possible for them to come from one common ancesstar as the sea has no nets to separate a new breed of fish from the existing one in order to help it develop into something else. Clearly the fish of the ocean was made supernaturally by God as it is revealed in Genesis 1. Whales for instance criss crosses the oceans of the world.

Genesis1 ²¹So God created the great sea creatures and every living creature that moves, with which the waters swarm, according to their kinds (species), and every winged bird according to its kind (species). And God saw that it was good.

Genesis 1 and 2 gives us the principles on how the world was created. It is not a precise historical or scientific version but is rather a beautiful story based on the truth. The basic principles are that God made everything supernaturally in generations (Genesis 2:4) over time. First he made the ground, water and air and then he used that to make the different life forms over time. In practice it meant God first made the first generation lizard, then the second generation geko that can dislodge its tail and then the third generation chameleon that can change colour, move slowly but has a lightning fast sticky tongue. However he made each from scratch. Each on its own production line so to speak. Genesis 1 and 2 was written not to modern scientific man but rather to an ancient agricultural community, the Israelites, just like Corinthians were written to the Corinthians. It took their worldview in consideration in its revelation. These people were still convinced the earth is a round flat disc with sun moving through the sky while the earth stood still and is not a revolving sfere. They only had the naked eye to make their assumptions. The Apostles of Jesus belonged to this same society in which slavery was still normal. They read Genesis 1 and 2 as literal history because that's the only explanation they had. Every nation had its own creation story and so did the Israelites. God did not use science or a literal recording of history to explain how he made the world like you find for instance in the Old Testament history of Israel from the life of Abraham onwards where there was an eyewitness historian that recorded the event, or the Gospels in the New Testament. The beginning of Genesis is a storytelling genre. It's a revelation of history and not a eyewitness recording of history. (Job 38 4 "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth? ") Just like Revelation is a revelation of the future. For it to be literal history there needs to be a human historian to record the event. When God reveals the unknown he filters it through a beautiful story, dream, poem or parable. Genesis also contains prophecy. Its not just an eyewitness historical book. If God used literal History and scientific method to describe how he made the world and humanity you would have come to church in an interlink truck. I the cubbyhole of the truck you would put your Bible and on the two trailers the truck is pulling the beginning of Genesis. That is just not practical. But in spite of Genesis 1 and 2 being a story based on the truth it is still far superior to the Theory of Evolution from which you deduct that God was not involved in the formation of life through supernaturally creating each species in his own time like he did with Adam and Eve. Genesis 1 and 2 is 3400 years ahead of Mr Dawkins.

So how did the Dodo get on Mauritius, a Volcanic Island formed 8 million years ago in the Indian Ocean, 2000km from mainland Africa. According to evolutionists it evolved from an Island hopping pigeon. But if the first Island hopping male and female pigeon reached Mauritius so would others. The pigeons of Mauritius would not be able to isolate themselves to such an extent over time from other pigeons of that species and then start losing their ability to fly and develop a strange big akward body. If the first pigeons flew there why would others not be able to fly there over the course of ten thousands of years and breed with the first pigeons. And why would a bird with such enourmous flying ability to reach Mauritius in the middle of the ocean, that is crucial for its survival, all of a sudden completely loose its ability to fly. The simple explanation is that the Dodo could not evolve out of an island hopping pigeon. God made the Dodo from scratch out of the ground of the earth. Jesus turned water into wine thereby proving that he can make organic matter from inorganic matter. The simple humble carpenter from Nasereth is indeed the Somebody that created every single species on our planet over millions of years like the fossil record evidence shows. He started simple and improved his created beings over eons of time until he finally got at humans, the crown of his creation. The only species made in his image. We also create machines in generations like the example of Homo on the front page. Machines and technology are constantly improved upon from the simple to more complex through the generations of development.

sophisticated and smart technology. The most advanced machines we have come up with though cannot even match God's biological machines in one area of sophistication, let alone seven. That's what makes them living machines. All living organisms have these 6 first traits:

1. Living organisms can feed themselves. Your car can't pour its own petrol or even produce it. Humans gather or farm for food. Humanity have not developed a machine capable of producing or tapping into its energy source on its own. Not even a smartphone can do that.
2. Living organisms can heal themselves. If you are ill or have an injury it heals. If a machine breaks you need a mechanic or dent-remover to fix it. Machines can't fix themselves.
3. Living organisms can control themselves or make independent choices. Even something as simple as a plant seed will only germinate if the conditions are right. Your car can't decide when it wants to go on a drive neither where it wants to drive. It can't even drive itself.
4. Living organisms can breed and make more of their kind because they can fertilise a female egg that then grows to an adult. Your car cannot be pregnant with a little car in its boot, then the car is born small and then it grows up over some time to be a big car. The ability of babies to grow is what makes it possible for a woman to have a whole big factory inside her body.
5. Living organisms can have a loving relationship with each other and connect with one another in some way. Machines have no love or affection for each other.
6. Living organisms can have a relationship with itself and is therefore conscious of its own identity, abilities and how its accepted by others. Your dog can chase its own tail and you can play golf on your own. A tree grows upright irrespective of its environment.
7. Human Beings can have an understanding of their creator and can love him and have a relationship with him. Even the most advanced Ford, the Ford Mustang that bears the name of Henry Ford its creator and father, have no concept of him. Windows don't know Bill Gates. Point 7 are what differentiates us from the other life God made. We are the crown of his creation and we are made in his image. That is the reason why his son Jesus could become one of us. There is intilgent life out there. His name is not ET but rather Jesus. To have a relationship with God it requires that you can exhibit his character or values. Only humans are capable of that. Point 7 are what differentiates us from the other life God made. We are the crown of his creation and are made in his image. That is the reason why his son Jesus could become one of us. Halleluja to the God of the Bible, the undisputed glorious creator of Heaven and Earth!!!
